

Lion Elections At Bloomingburg

Program Is Held
On Charter Night

The annual Charter Night program brought 110 members, their wives and guests to Tuesday night's meeting of the Bloomingburg Lions Club in the high school dining room.

Festivities of the evening got underway with a steak dinner followed by group singing.

The business meeting, which was highlighted by the election of officers, was presided over by Edgar McFadden, the club president.

Supt. G. H. Biddle of the Bloomingburg schools was chosen for the club's next president. Serving with him will be Clyde Cramer, first vice president; Jess Schlichter, second vice president; Robert Hawk, third vice president; Joe Elliott, secretary-treasurer; William Boyd, assistant secretary-treasurer; Glen Heistand and Omar Rapp, directors for two years; Leonard Slager, Lion tamer; Richard Hunter, tall twister.

As the end of the terms of the presidents approached, a long list of projects completed by the club was read by the secretary. Among the outstanding accomplishments of the year mentioned were policing of the Fairground during the Fair, the minstrel put on by the club, the maintenance of a playground for the community's youngsters, the sponsorship of Boy Scout Troop No. 133 and purchase of glasses for 10 needy children.

On the committee which provided the decorations and arranged the program were Mr. and Mrs. Loren Noble, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Evans, Mr. and Mrs. William Heinz and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews.

Strike Is No Threat To Gas Supply Here

The nationwide strike of oil workers, if it takes place, may cause a sharp pinch in gasoline unless the strike is settled within a few days. However, it will not have any effect on the supply of natural gas in this area at the present time.

A. E. Weatherly, district manager of The Dayton Power & Light Co. here said Wednesday that there is no immediate threat of natural gas shortage in the area served by The Dayton Power & Light Co.

The Ohio Fuel Gas Co., it was stated, supplies the company here with natural gas, and has 50 billion cubic feet of gas in underground storage in Ohio.

This supply is sufficient to supply the demand for several days.

Hearing for Adams Fixed for Monday

Preliminary hearing of the charges of cutting with intent to kill Ray Wilson, April 22, which was to have been held Wednesday, was continued by Judge R. L. Brubaker until Monday.

The continuance was due to the fact that Wilson is still in Memorial Hospital, slowly recovering from the stab wounds inflicted by Adams at the Beery Hatchery, during an altercation.

Adams was released on $1300 cash bond a few days ago, and the bond was continued until the hearing next Monday.

RANKIN REPORTED on the district convention in Greenville Sunday at which Don Gibson was elected deputy district governor.

Gibson took the occasion to express his appreciation of the club's support.

The speaker of the evening, Dr. James K. Eyre, Jr., a political scientist and author of the book, "The Roosevelt-MacArthur Conflict," was introduced by Joe White.

In his talk, Dr. Eyre gave some of the background of the country's present foreign relations policies, most of it critical of the national administrations since before the second World War. In developing his theme, which he said followed the disclosures in his own book, he also brought in the Truman-MacArthur conflict over Korean policies. In the end, the president relieved MacArthur of his Far Eastern command.

Guests for the meeting were Walter Hinkle, president of Schluykill Haven, Pa., Lions Club, Willis Coffman, Charles Simpson, Charles Newkirk, Judge Harry M. Rankin, and Bob Seblom, now in the navy stationed at Corpus Christi, Tex. A meeting of the directors in the office of Richard Rankin was announced for May 5.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, April 30.—(P)—Corn paced a retreat in all grains on the Board of Trade Wednesday, tumbling to new low prices for the year.

The market held fairly steady during the first couple of hours with soybeans showing flashes of strength. Then a downward trend started. It gathered momentum as the session wore along.

Among adverse influences were more rain in Kansas, a lowering of the parity figure for wheat, news of large supplies of soybeans on farms and uncertainty about the general economic picture because of the outbreak of strikes.

Chrysler V-8 Saratoga Sedan, gasoline economy winner in Class "F". Entered and driven in the 1952 Mobil Oil Gas Economy Run by Chrysler Dealer Mel Alsbury, Hollywood. It was one of three Chrysler FirePower V-8's to win in their respective classes.

180 HP CHRYSLER V-8 FIRST IN 3 CLASSES IN ECONOMY RUN!

Here is truly dramatic proof that Chrysler's great new FirePower 180 HP V-8 engine design sets an entirely new standard of efficiency among American passenger car engines!

In this annual economy test, rigidly supervised, and limited strictly to stock car entrants, cars competing are divided by price and size, into 11 standard classes. The route, from Los Angeles to Sun Valley, covered 1,415 miles of every possible kind of driving. Average speed for all cars was just under 41 miles per hour.

And in 3 of the 11 classes, the Chrysler V-8 engine was best for gasoline mileage.

In Class "F", this magnificent new engine won first place for a Saratoga 6-passenger sedan (125 1/2-inch wheelbase, 4010 pounds). In Class "H", it won first honors for a Saratoga model 8-passenger sedan (139 1/2-inch wheelbase, 4510 pounds). And in the top price and size, Class "T", it was again first, in a Chrysler Crown Imperial Sedan (145 1/2-inch wheelbase, 5360 pounds).

To travel these substantial cars at this speed under these conditions gives additional proof, we believe, that here is the finest and most efficient engine ever put into an American passenger car!

WE INVITE YOU TO DRIVE THIS ENGINE, YOURSELF...

The same engine which has just scored these remarkable accomplishments is no farther from you than your own Chrysler Dealer. He will welcome the chance to let you take the wheel and feel for yourself what Chrysler has done . . . not only in FirePower engine performance, but in full-time power steering, power brakes, new Oriflow shock absorbers, and passenger comfort . . . to deserve the title: "Finest Car America Has Yet Produced!"

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, April 30 — (UP)—President Truman stuck his neck out in the steel dispute. He didn't have to. If he had handled it another way, he might have put his critics' necks on the block.

He could have used the Taft-Hartley Act. The result might have been the same, a strike. But he would have avoided a rain of criticism and the historic rebuke from Federal Judge David A. Pine.

This is what he did, might have done, and still may have to do:

WHAT HE DID—

The steelworkers, whose contract ended Dec. 31, began negotiations last November with the mill owners for higher pay. Getting nowhere, they threatened to strike New Year's Day.

Truman stepped in and asked both sides to let the Wage Stabilization Board examine the case.

The board heard both sides and finally recommended a substantial pay raise for the workers. The owners refused to grant it unless the government let them raise prices. The government said no.

Again getting nowhere, the workers threatened once more to strike. Truman stepped in again and seized the mills. Since the government in charge, might give them the raise they wanted, the workers worked. Also, it's against the law to strike against the government.

No law and nothing in the Constitution said Truman in peacetime had power to seize private property. But he argued the Constitution contained inviolable but built-in powers for any President in an emergency.

His critics denounced the seizure and said he should have used Taft-Hartley. Twice, under this battering, Truman asked Congress for a solution. Instead, Congress talked impeachment.

The mill owners appealed to Judge Pine to throw the government out of their property, arguing the president exceeded his powers. Tuesday the judge agreed, telling the government to get out.

And immediately the workers, who had already postponed their strike more than 100 days, finally went on strike.

Those postponements are one reason Truman gave for not invoking T-H. He said when he seized the mills that the union already had postponed its strike for an even longer time than the 80-day cooling-off period provided for in the law.

WHAT TRUMAN might have done—

When he saw the strike coming last December, Truman could have used Taft-Hartley. It would have to work like this:

He'd set up a board to examine the facts, then he could ask a federal judge to forbid a strike or shutdown, giving the government more time to try to bring the two sides into agreement.

By using T-H up to this point the President would have been acting in accordance with law passed by Congress.

But T-H only delays a strike. It can't, in the end, forbid it. If there was no agreement between the workers and the owners—after T-H had delayed a strike 80 days—the workers would be free to strike, unless—

And this is where Truman

Ag Official Labels Kingston Grain Deal As Isolated Case

WASHINGTON, April 30 — (UP)—An Agriculture Department aide told investigating senators Tuesday that while the government lost about $111,000 on a grain storage contract in Kingston, Ohio, it was an "isolated case."

The witness was G. D. Bradley, regional director of the department's Production and Marketing Administration in Chicago. He appeared before the Senate Agriculture Committee, which is making a detailed study of charges that "fantastic" profits were made in government-stored farm products.

Senators fired many questions about a $111,000 government claim against the warehouse in Kingston where committee investigators said storage payments were made and additional grain storage after a 50,000-bushel shortage was known.

Bradley told the senators "all procedures" of the government farm price-support and storage program "have been tightened" up in could have put Congress on the spot. When T-H is used but fails to stop a strike, the President must lay the whole problem in the lap of Congress, which can pass a law forbidding a strike or do what else it wishes.

At one stroke then he could have put Congress on the spot. Instead, he was denounced as a dictator when he asked Congress to act.

Why didn't he use T-H? It's been a political issue for years. Blessed by union leaders, Truman has condemned T-H and urged Congress to wipe it off the books. If he had used it in this case, he might have laid himself open to jibes from his critics and denunciation by his labor union friends.

Now that a strike is underway the country will have to wait to see whether the President finally falls back on T-H as a means of getting the workers back on the job. If he does, and they refuse, there'll be some more crisis.

Chicago office, recommended only civil and not criminal action against the operators of Kingston Exchange.

He was told the shortages and loss appeared to be a result of "mis-management and inefficiency of personnel" rather than fraud.

Later, a PMA official said, other facts were unearthed and E. F. Reynolds, vice president, and Ronald Churtz, manager, were indicted on charges of conversion of government grain and conspiracy to violate the price-support act.

Cotter stated that a check of the Chicago office indicated "any number of conversion or shortage cases" where elevator men and farmers had avoided criminal and civil prosecution by simply paying up the government losses.

Bradley insisted this was "an isolated case."

Remedy Against Disfranchisement Needed

On many occasions the Fayette County Board of Elections has been asked for information as to voting rights in case of a family moving to another state.

Probably all election boards in the country have received such queries many times.

In every national election, such as the one to be held next November, there are thousands of men and women who find themselves disfranchised because their work assignments have taken them from one state to another during the year.

There should be some remedy found for this situation in the matter of permitting eligible voters to ballot for candidates for president.

In many states, a complete year's residence is required before the voter becomes eligible to cast his ballot. If the voter has left his former home permanently and has not yet resided for the required year in his new state, he is disfranchised completely. He cannot cast an absentee ballot in his old home state because he is no longer regarded as a permanent resident and cannot participate in its state elections.

Certainly, such a situation should not prevent any citizen from casting his ballot for president. In those states where the presidential ballot is separated from the state ticket, there should be no difficulty whatever in such a procedure.

What should be considered is a proposal for uniform election laws, which could be adopted by all the states in exactly the same way as uniform laws have been enacted with respect to sales and negotiable instruments.

If this can be accomplished, we shall make a long stride towards helping every voter to exercise his maximum voting rights at every election.

One campaign slogan which will not be heard this year is, "Don't swap horses in the middle of the steamroller."

In a convention a steam roller is a wicked device or "democracy in action," depending on who is at the throttle.

Truman a Personal Isolationist

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, April 30—President Truman has isolated himself completely from such normal groups of advisers as Cabinet members, his friends and agents in Congress and party leaders within recent months, and especially since he decided to bow out of active politics next January.

It is a strange metamorphosis that baffles his cronies and even such erstwhile consultants as Secretary Dean Acheson. It seems that in order to compensate for any loss of power and prestige he may have suffered from announcement of his abdication, he has resolved to be more assertive, more authoritarian and more aloof than before.

RULE — He no longer takes his Cabinet into his confidence or seeks their advice. His major decisions on foreign and domestic questions are never preceded by round-table discussions and analyses.

Likewise his legislative plans and even his presidential preferences become known to Capitol Hill cronies through the newspapers. He has even shut himself off from the "Missouri gang"—Messrs. Snyder, Vaughan, Connelly, Graham etc.

Not even in the days of the headstrong and self-sufficient Franklin D. Roosevelt, so frequently assailed as a "dictator," was there such a one-man rule as now. Although it is admittedly a slight oversimplification of the new Truman attitude, certain prominent Democrats suggest that it is a "public be damned" policy. Some substitute "party" for "public" in Commodore Vanderbilt's historic brush-off.

EVIDENCE — In view of so many strange and unexplainable actions, they begin to fear that the Pendergast alumnus has lost interest in what they call the "organization," including its chances of victory next November. National Chairman Frank E. McKinney is almost a stranger, and would not be missed if he quit.

As evidence of this theory, the "what's happened to Harry" crowd cite the McGrath-McGrath-Morris cleanup farce, the steel seizure, the unnecessary surrender to the unions, the shadow he has cast over permanent freedom of the press, his acrobatic and harmful shifts from Vinson to Stevenson to Harriman as his 1952 favorites, and finally, his overnight reversal of his plan to shift river and harbor construction from the army engineers to Interior's public power advocates.

'CABINET' — Mr. Truman must, of course, rely on so-called experts, in view of his natural and acknowledged limitations. No chief executive can make decisions without having a body of facts and opinions to guide him. It is the character, the background and the ambition of his new and personally selected "kitchen cabinet" which best explain many of his recent actions.

A careful but clandestine inquiry by his discarded associates has revealed the identity of his present nestors, in the opinion of the investigators. Their personalities help to explain the metamorphosed Truman, and to forecast his policies for the next eight months of his term.

TUTORS — His tutors on foreign affairs are W. Averell Harriman, Mutual Security Administrator, and General Omar N. Bradley, head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Both men have long been devotees of General George C. Marshall, so that the latter is Washington's elder statesman in the final analysis.

Truman's top economic aide is Leon Keyserling, chairman of the Economic Advisory Committee to the president. As recently explained here, Keyserling was a minor Roosevelt "brain trust," and partial author of NRA, the Wagner Act and Social Security legislation. A former professor, he has never had business or industrial experience.

ILLUMINATING — The White

House authority on labor problems, including wages, prices and controls, is John R. Steelman. After a short stretch as a college professor, he became a government career man in the Labor Department's Conciliation Service in 1934. Under Truman, he has become a bigwig at Washington.

These men have several things in common, which cast an illuminating light on them and Truman. All have enjoyed promotions under him, and are beholden to him for past and future favors. None are party men, or have any political savvy.

With the exception of Harriman, and he got ahead in railroading because of his name and his father's great prestige, none have had to deal with such bread-and-butter problems as payrolls, production schedules, reserve funds, budgets, profits and dividends.

All admire General Dwight D. Eisenhower! So does Truman!

INFLUENCE — The Marshall-Harriman-Bradley influence dominates foreign policy, barring any shifts which changing conditions might lead Acheson to venture. It includes all-out aid to Europe, continental rearming, a mere holding action in the Far East, and no retreat or peace discussions in the "cold war." Harriman actually runs the economic battlefield, Bradley the military.

Keyserling's philosophy of maintaining prosperity through spending, federal financing of production and rigid controls underlies the domestic program. In addition to government use of money, he advocates inflation of purchasing power through federally enforced fattening of pay envelopes. Steelman has sided with labor in almost every wartime and postwar dispute of a major character.

Anybody who does not subscribe to this philosophy "has no house with Truman." That is why he snubs vocal of silent critics within his own family.

Eisenhower and Questionnaires

During the recent meetings of editors and publishers in New York, the matter of questionnaires addressed to General Eisenhower loomed large, with forcible expressions on the subject. Some thought that he should answer questions; others that he should not.

Whether the questions are well worded or not, whether they are loaded or not is of little interest, because no matter what is asked, a man who knows what he thinks can answer as he chooses. Questionnaires are being composed by nearly everybody who owns a pencil.

Furthermore, all the arguments about General Eisenhower being in uniform are strictly eye-wash, because he has been a candidate in uniform, whether he answers questionnaires or not; he has received delegations of American businessmen and politicians at his headquarters in Paris; he has commented, reservedly, it is true on his victories in the primaries. He has received Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Paul G.

Hoffman, whose meetings were strictly political and were so reported.

In a word, General Eisenhower has been political for many months despite the uniform, in all phases of a pre-convention campaign, except in that phase which has dealt with an expression of opinion. There, of course, his embarrassment is great, because as a Republican he must be opposed to the president, but as a general, he is the president's subordinate. This paradoxical position surely cannot be prolonged after June 1 when he ceases to be the head of NATO.

It should never have been permitted. It would seem that a due sense of propriety should have impelled General Eisenhower to have resigned as soon as he authorized that his name be entered in any primary. The choice was whether he would continue as an active general or become a politician, if there is a conflict, which is doubtful, because many of our top generals have been playing politics for years. General Eisenhower's choice to be both simultaneously is the cause for the questionnaires, particularly the "Knoxville (Tennessee) 21 Questions" which have received so much attention.

These questions were issued before they were answered, which some have criticized as discourteous; however, the questions themselves are important because they are so complete. They could be an outline for the platforms of both parties.

It is possible that the campaign by silence, which the Eisenhower strategists have decided upon, will not interfere with his getting the nomination. However, sooner or later, any candidate must speak his mind or be regarded as one who has no mind. What many Republicans fear is that, even if nominated, Eisenhower will suffer during the election campaign from a lack of clarification of his position. This could lead to a Democratic victory. It is to be assumed that Eisenhower would, if nominated, speak his mind during the campaign, but the suggestion that he will not resign until nominated causes some to wonder whether he will not say that he will continue in uniform until elected.

The danger in this silence is greater to the country than to a political party. Under the American theory, no man is too important to seek the office of president of the United States. No man, whatever his accomplishments, lessens his stature by admitting that he is devoting himself to a campaign for his selection. Our leading men are not Chinese mandarins who publicly reject office while privately they labor to obtain it. Greater men than Dwight D. Eisenhower have campaigned for themselves for the presidency.

Therefore, there can be no humiliation in his telling the citizens what he thinks. To do it by proxy is worse, however, than not to do it at all. The answers remain the proxy's views until they are accredited by the principal.

Many who ardently support General Eisenhower take the same view as his opponents on this subject. I have heard it said by some of General Eisenhower's supporters that they fear that the strategy of silence is particularly harmful, as affecting those who are on the fence, those who like Eisenhower and would support him but who wonder what Eisenhower likes.

My discussions with publishers and editors force upon me the conclusion that the campaign by silence reduces the political and intellectual stature of the general. If it is continued after June 1, it will be increasingly damaging to him.

Diet and Health Rare Disease Helped By Use of New Drugs

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Few people in this country will ever be bothered with rhinoscleroma, but those who do catch it may be thankful for the new antibiotic, streptomycin. Usually incurable, this disease of the nose has yielded to the drug in some cases.

Rhinoscleroma is not common in the United States, but has appeared here with increasing frequency during the last few years. It is supposed to be very common in Central America, and occurs throughout the world.

Membrane Inflammation
The disorder usually begins with an inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose, giving an extremely foul odor. As the disease progresses, small nodules begin to grow and block the nose passages. The foul odor and difficulty in breathing become increasingly serious as time goes on.

Many times this disease is mistaken for leprosy or tuberculosis of the nose. A correct diagnosis can usually be made by examining the infected tissues under a microscope.

It was believed that rhinoscleroma was due to an infection by a virus. This is a germ so small it cannot be seen through an ordinary microscope, and is usually detected with fine porcelain filters. Recently, however, certain type of bacteria has been implicated, and may be the real cause.

Antibiotics Help

This disease is very disabling, and most cases cannot be cured. Until a few years ago, no treatment was known. Now we have learned that the antibiotics, streptomycin, have brought great improvement in numbers of patients, both in this country and abroad.

Thus, we are learning to treat and cure a formerly incurable disease, one which has disfigured many victims and caused them to be shunned by their fellow men.

BARBERTON, April 30—Coroner C. I. Martin of Summit County is puzzled over how a man five feet eight could drown in six feet of water, especially when he could swim.

The body of Grant W. Hafley, 29, a Wadsworth building contractor, was found in Wolf Creek near Copley Monday afternoon. He had gone there to fish, and his tackle was found on the creek bank. Even if he stepped in water over his head, the coroner said, "he should have been able to keep jumping until he reached shallow water."

Delta Kappa Gamma Society Holds Regular Meeting

The Delta Kappa Gamma Society met on Monday evening at the attractive home of Misses Marjorie Evans and Ruth Stecher and assisting hostesses were Miss Anna Alice Frayne and Agnes Kerrigan.

The president, Dr. Ruth Teeters, presided at the meeting and quickly disposed of matters of routine which included reports given by heads of each committee. Most important was the vote to give to an outstanding college student—a future teacher—the annual Delta Kappa Gamma scholarship of $50.00.

Miss Gladys Melson presented the program. Dr. Teeters and Mrs. Elton B. Elliott, who had attended a state convention recently held in Akron, gave animated reports of an evening reception marked by a songfest of Serbian songs and dances. They told of a President's Workshop and of a glamorous Saturday night banquet at which Doc Virginia Sanderson spoke on "Women in Poetry," and Judge Florence Allen gave a stirring address on "World Harmony for a Chaotic World."

She urged American women to be pioneers in bringing it about. Miss Sara Rives, Kentucky state president of Delta Kappa Gamma, told "Why Teachers Get Gray." Best of all was a huge collection of children's books, paid for by the money usually spent for souvenirs and gifts to be taken home. The books were to be sent to desolate European children by means of CARE.

Mrs. N. M. Reiff presented a thrilling film, which told more plainly than any words the exciting story of dreaded cancer, and the means of combatting it. Miss Dorothea Gaut read a convincing paper which answered the question "Shall We Vote for a convention to Revise Ohio's Constitution?" Mrs. Marcus Prosch distributed sample ballots—Republican and Democratic—for the May 6 primary election.

Garden Club Plans Celebration Of Anniversary

The Fayette Garden Club celebrates its 30th anniversary during the month of May and the 60 members of the club have planned a series of interesting events. Highlight of the organization's anniversary will be a luncheon on Monday, May 12th at the Washington Country Club with an attendance of 150-200 garden clubbers expected.

State officers of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs are expected to attend as guests of the club and invitations have been sent to each of the nine garden clubs in the county including their members to take part in the anniversary luncheon. Reservations are already being received and must be in by Thursday, May 8th.

Mrs. Frank Garry of Cincinnati, who last year was selected as "outstanding gardener" in the state will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Garry's topic will be "Our Gardens Today and Tomorrow."

"We have been unable to find the oldest garden club in the state," Mrs. P. C. Harlow, president of the club said today, "but we think the Fayette Garden Club is one of the oldest."

The group was organized in May, 1922 with its membership open to both men and women. Since that time the men have dropped out, and the organization is composed of women only.

At the time of its beginning, it was the only one in Fayette County but now there are nine women's clubs and one for men with a total membership of over 250.

The regular May meeting of the club will be on Friday, May 9th at the home of Mrs. Lester Dadds. And on Friday, May 16th, Mrs. Max Dice will entertain with a tea for

Kensington Club Is Entertained By Mrs. Biehn

The regular fortnightly get-together of the Tuesday Kensington Club was enjoyed Tuesday afternoon when fourteen members were entertained at the home of Mrs. Blanche Biehn.

Spring flowers made up a cheery atmosphere and the afternoon, as usual, was spent in congenial chatting over needlework, which was interrupted with the serving of a dainty dessert course by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Walter Patton.

COLUMBUS MAN LOSES 38 LBS. THANKS RENNEL

"I am a former Fire Captain of the City of Columbus and had been told by my doctor that I was far over my natural weight," writes Lisle R. Reece, 800 Heyl Ave., Columbus 6, Ohio. "Since taking Rennel I have lost 35 lbs. and about 4 inches off my waistline. I plan to continue with Rennel as I still must take off 15 more pounds." It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Insist on genuine Rennel.

Cunningham, was the award winner and since she was unable to be present her mother accepted the award.

A nominating committee composed of Mrs. John Gerstner, Mrs. Leonard Korn and Mrs. Robert Haigler, presented a slate of officers for next year which were unanimously elected and are as follows: Mrs. Fred Enslin, vice-chairman; Mrs. Wilbur Hoppes, secretary; Miss Marie Marchant, treasurer and Mrs. John Morehouse, chairman of C. A. R.

Following the election, Mrs. Forsythe read excerpts from the Washington Post concerning the recent Continental Congress held recently in Washington, D. C.

Following the close of the business session, the hostesses invited the guests to a social hour during which bridge and canasta were enjoyed and awards in bridge went to Mrs. Forsythe and Miss Marchant and in canasta, Mrs. Thomas Braden and Mrs. Willard Bitzer were winners.

A delightful dessert course was served at small tables centered with clever egg containers filled with spring flowers.

Mrs. Millard Weidinger and Mrs. Thomas were included as guests.

Lush Seller's Market Gone, Business Told

WASHINGTON, April 30 — Business leaders were advised Tuesday that lush seller's markets are fading and industry again must "start selling—or else."

This word was delivered to the 40th annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce by Al N. Seares, vice president and director of General Sales Service, Remington Rand, Inc.

"American business must create productive jobs or else the political powers will produce boondoggles," Seares told the 3,000 businessmen-delegates.

Outlets for greatly expanded plant capacity, he said, can be found in meeting the demand for higher living standards from a population which has gained 24 million additional "sales prospects" since 1940.

Already some industries are faced with "bulging warehouses and very few customers," Seares said.

"We are now finding out that scarce rayon, scarce nylon, scarce television sets, scarce automobiles are really not scarce."

"It is necessary that we hire salesmen and train salesmen and retrain experienced salesmen who have grown soft and lax in sellers' markets. We must spend more than we have been spending on advertising and sales promotion."

Solid Advice Is Offered To Senior Boys

Dr. Bland Stradley,
OSU Vice-President,
Rotary Speaker

The 48 boys of the Washington High School were given a treat in the form of some sound and wholesome advice Tuesday, by Dr. Bland Stradley, vice president of Ohio State University.

The occasion was the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Washington Country Club. All the boys were invited as guests of the club to help celebrate Boys and Girls Week sponsored by Rotary International.

Each Rotarian took charge of one student and sat beside the young man at the luncheon table during the program.

All the student guests were warmly welcomed by President Ed Moser who told how a special effort had been made by the club during past years to bring different individuals and different groups in from the high school here and at times groups from other schools of the county, on various occasions.

THE FEATURED speaker for the day, Dr. Stradley, was introduced by Frank W. Baker, head of the Rotary Club's youth committee.

A straight-from-the-shoulder talk, without oratorical fanfare but filled with interest and common sense, was given by the speaker in a semi-humorous vein, but with great earnestness. He had everyone of his listeners giving close attention.

Dr. Stradley asserted that nearly every young man could come close to getting what he wanted, or achieving what he hoped for, if he seriously sought to do so and had the strength of character to stick to his main purpose.

Practically every boy can get a college education in preparation for his future, if he wants to do so badly enough, he asserted.

"Boys, don't just be like 'contented cows.' Don't be just hunting security, look for opportunity," Dr. Stradley urged.

He related numerous examples of young men who followed such purposes, under difficulties, to success in a big way by their own efforts.

"Don't sit back waiting for somebody to hunt you up to lend you a helping hand," the speaker said. "Take what you have and try to improve upon it, do the most with what you have. Go after something and don't give up easily."

DR. STRADLEY especially emphasized the need for young people to follow the idea of maintaining good health, industriously working and above all keeping alert to train their minds toward "being something."

"Remember," he continued, "the rules for a good life are simple. All you need to do is to be sure you are thinking, following a life of decency and seeking development, mental, physical, social and religious."

He said that it was not unusual for young high school graduates not to know exactly what they wanted to do. He advised that in such cases such individuals go somewhere to learn how their native abilities could be used to best advantage. He said that up at Ohio State University, which he declared to be "your university," there is a department headed by an exceptional man, who gives all his time to helping students "find themselves" by doing the things they are best fitted to do. Many other schools offer this same kind of help, he said.

HE ASSERTED that the country is full of demands for young people to fill a wide range of occupational opportunities. "I think the young people of today as a whole are as fine a class as the country ever has had, and a majority of them are proving it," Dr. Stradley declared.

In saying how much he enjoyed coming into Fayette County at any time, Dr. Stradley said during his talk "Most of you people little realize how fortunate you are here. God dumped a lot of good land in this locality. You are not suffering, although about one-third of the people in the world are hungry. We are not and I sometimes wonder if we are grateful enough for our own blessings."

At the conclusion of his talk he asked for questions. Several queries came from listeners, all of which he answered frankly.

President Ed Moser cordially thanked the speaker for coming here to deliver exactly the right kind of a talk to senior high school boys and spoke in enthusiastic terms of the message Dr. Stradley had delivered.

Bowersville Still After Water System

Bowersville is still working on that water system, plans for which have been under consideration for a long time.

To create interest in construction of a proposed waterworks system, a public meeting has been called by the Lions Club.

Plans for the project will be explained and questions answered regarding the project.

Estimated cost has been placed at $91,000 of which $70,000 will be in mortgage revenue bonds which will be paid off by revenue derived from the sale of water. The other $21,000 will be by special assessments.

Work of drilling a well is now underway on the Vaughn Lewis farm just outside the town. A survey also is being made to determine the number of consumers who will sign for the water service.

First British prime minister to live at No. 10 Downing Street was Sir Robert Walpole, who took over in 1735.

sesquicentennial Research Shows:

Topography of Fayette County Has Had Influence on History

The topography of Fayette County has had a direct influence on its history.

That is the conclusion of Miss Clara C. Mark who is preparing material to be used next year in Fayette County's part of the Ohio Sesquicentennial celebration.

In a brief resume of facts and figures she has compiled, Miss Mark said the most striking feature of the county is the general flatness of the land.

The maximum difference between the highest and lowest points, she has found, is barely 300 feet. The highest point is "Dumpling Hill," which is 1,140 feet above sea level and the lowest place is where Paint Creek crosses the county line in the angle where Fayette, Ross and Highland Counties meet not far from Greenfield.

In this southeast corner of the county, she said, the stream valleys are deeper than the general level of the surrounding country, but all the slopes are "very gentle" and the streams "flow in extremely shallow valleys."

CONTINUING HER resume of the relationship of the physical makeup of the county to its economic and social development, Miss Mark said:

"The oldest bedrocks showing natural exposure in Fayette County are Silurian in age, and the youngest Devonian.

"Years ago flagstones from the Monroe outcrop were used for pavement in Washington C. H., and this same kind of flagstones, brought from the Rock Mills region and showing the characteristic mud-cracks, were used about many Fayette County farmhouses and service yards.

"The thickness of the glacial drift varies considerably throughout Fayette County. One well at Washington C. H. shows a thickness of 70 feet, while others, not far away show considerably greater thickness. As much as 200 feet of drift is known in some places.

"The topography of the county has had a direct influence on its history because much of the land was poorly drained it was considered too wet for profitable farming, but this very condition helped to retain the vegetable humus and bring about the formation of exceptionally rich soil of great value.

"Early routes of travel through the county, rails and traces used in pre-historic times by the Indians and the animals of the region and later followed by white men, took advantage of the higher land of the moraines. Some of the modern roads follow these old routes.

"The gravel knolls and knobs of the moraine belts have, since the beginning, furnished desirable building sites.

"MANY of the first houses in the county were located on these natural elevations and at least one pioneer of the county received his

Sailor's Finger Prevents Bomb From Blasting

OFF KOREA, April 30—(P)—A cool sailor averted possible tragedy on the Carrier Boxer recently by sticking his finger in a live bomb to keep it from exploding.

This is the official story: A Panther Jet returned from a mission over North Korea with a 250-pound bomb the pilot couldn't release.

The bomb jarred loose and went bouncing and sliding up the deck, jammed against a parked plane.

The arming propeller on the nose spun ominously.

Two flight crewmen grabbed its tail fin and began dragging the bomb to one side, oblivious of the danger.

Ralph V. O'Dell, an aviation ordnance man and an expert on bombs and fuses, rushed up. He jabbed his finger into the space between the striking pin and the fuse body to prevent accidental discharge.

O'Dell held his finger in place until the bomb had been carried to one side.

Then he slipped a piece of wood into the mechanism and calmly removed the fuse.

Stassen Urges 'Improvements'

COLUMBUS, April 30—(P)—Harold E. Stassen Monday urged a program of "major public improvements" after defense production levels off to keep our economy "strong and virile."

Stassen, former Minnesota governor and candidate for the Republican nomination for President, told Columbus Kiwanis Club members such a program should be sponsored by the federal government.

3 Young Men Here Soon Will Enter Ministry

Four-year Course To Be Closed with May Commencement

Three young Fayette County men today were approaching the end of four years of training for the ministry and looking forward to the time in the near future when they will have pastorates of their own in the Christian Church.

Two of them, Clarence E. Mansfield and Robert E. Purtell, Jr., will be graduated from Kentucky College at Grayson, Ky., May 9, and the third, Ronald Merritt, will complete his course and be graduated from the Cincinnati Bible Seminary on May 15.

All three of these young men have been ordained into the ministry. Their ordination took place here with appropriate services at the First Christian Church about a year ago.

Rev. Merritt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Merritt, 316 East Elm Street, is a graduate of Washington C. H. High School in the class of 1948. The following autumn, he entered the seminary.

DURING HIS THIRD year at the seminary, soon after he was ordained, he took over the pastorate of the First Christian Church of Springville, Ind., which he held for about a year. While serving that church, he drove 138 miles to Springville every week-end to conduct services than came back to carry on his seminary studies through the week.

Mrs. Merritt said her son had not yet determined definitely on his future course, expect that he would continue in the ministry and take a pastorate in the near future.

Rev. Purtell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Purtell, Sr., of the Fishback Road in southern Fayette County. He is now the pastor of the Bradbury Church of Christ, in Pomeroy, Meigs County, along the Ohio River.

Upon his graduation from Kentucky Christian College, he will receive an A. B. degree in religious education.

A classmate of Rev. Purtell in the class of 33 members is Rev. Mansfield, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mansfield, 1226 East Rawlings Street. He, too, will receive an A. B. degree in religious education with which he will go into the service of the Christian Church.

Campground Burns

COLUMBUS, April 30—(P)—A 40-bed dormitory and two cottages at the Church of the Nazarene Campgrounds north of Columbus were destroyed by fire late Monday. Firemen estimated damage at $9,000.

Co-Op Telephone Firm Is Backed

COLUMBUS, April 30—(P)—Rep. Wayne L. Hays, (D-Ohio) Monday urged the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to authorize the state's first rural cooperative telephone company.

The Flushing, Ohio, congressman testified at a commission hearing on the request of the Belmont-Monroe Telephone Co. of St. Clairsville. The company, subsidized by the Rural Electrification Commission, wants to operate in sections of Belmont and Monroe Counties.

IS THIS TRIP NECESSARY?

NO...not if you have an indoor automatic gas incinerator!

Going out in the weather to the backyard garbage can is not the modern sanitary way to dispose of garbage. It's the last relic of primitive housekeeping, now being rapidly discarded as modern homes add indoor automatic gas-fired incinerators. Now summer spraying of smelly garbage cans is as unnecessary as asking your bones on wet or icy backsteps to get rid of winter table scraps. The safe, clean, convenient way to dispose of wet or dry garbage, wrappings, sweeper dirt and other burnable household trash is in an automatic gas incinerator—without stepping outside the house!

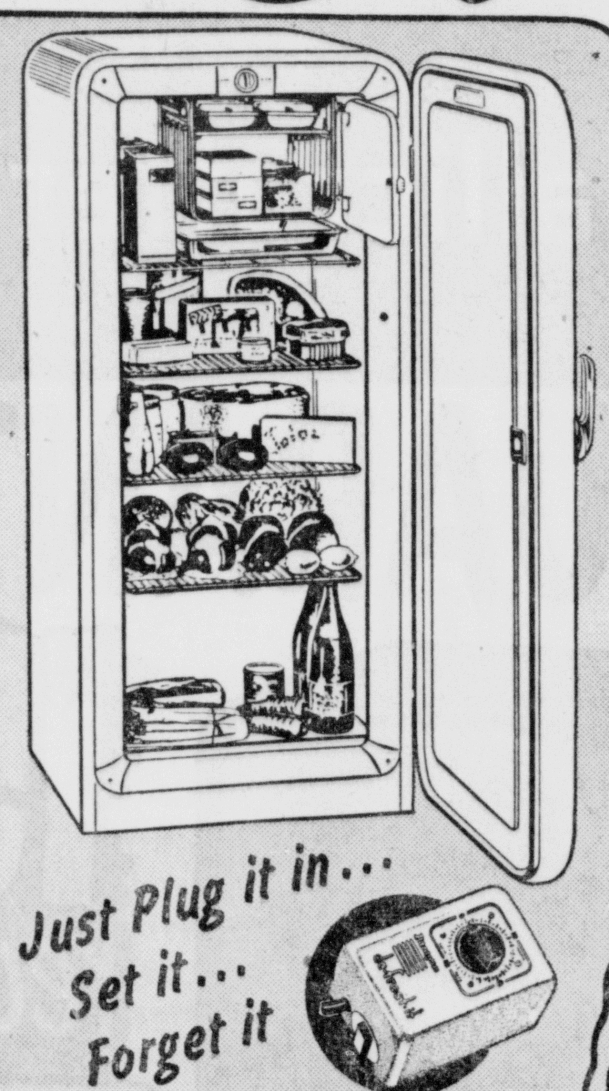

The new gas-fired automatic incinerators are easy and economical to operate. All you do is to set the dial of the timer clock. That turns on the gas and lights it automatically. At the end of the burning time, the burner is turned off automatically.

Sold on convenient terms. For additional information, phone or stop in at any principal company.

Lions Edge Greenfielders, 5 to 4, In Return Game Here on Tuesday

The Lions of WHS bounced back from a 6-1 licking handed them at Greenfield Monday to knock off the Tigers in a return game here Tuesday afternoon by a score of 5 to 4 in an SCO League baseball game.

Eddie Robinett, a freshman pitcher, held the Tigers in check in the pinches although they clipped his offerings for 7 hits and his mates made 5 misuses.

The victory gave the Lions their second victory of the season in five games. They had swamped Wilmington Hurricane, 15 to 6, in a loosely played game earlier in the season.

Against that, they have lost three games—to London, 9 to 8; to Circleville, 20 to 5 and to Greenfield, 6 to 1.

Friday they are to play their first game in the central district tourney at Wilson Field with the winner of Wednesday's (today) game between Aquinas and Rosary in Columbus.

Both teams started out in Tuesday's game here in high gear. The Greenfielders scored 2 runs in the first inning, but the Lions came back to take a 3-2 lead in the last half.

With the game tied at 4-all going into the sixth inning, Glenn Milstead scored the winning run for the Lions when Allen Grillot was tossed out at first. Milstead had singled and moved to third when two walks filled the bases. He was well on his way home with the deciding tally when Grillot hit to the second baseman.

Rose Ave. PTA Officers Named

Pupils of School Give Entertainment

Mrs. Jack Yeoman was elected president of the Rose Avenue Parent-Teacher Association at its final meeting of the school year Tuesday evening.

Following a pot luck supper, sponsored by the room mothers, the business meeting and elections were held.

Officers who were selected for the 1952-53 school year will be Mrs. Yeoman, president; Mrs. Larry Leeth, first vice president; Hugh Rea, second vice president; Mrs. Max Wilson, secretary and Mrs. Harry Leeth, treasurer. Rea and Lee Alderman were appointed to the auditing committee.

During the regular reports, the treasurer announced there was $186.49 in the treasury and that the group had cleared $55 on their dance held in the Washington C. H. Armory two weeks ago.

Mrs. Ruth Ryder was introduced to the members by Hugh Rea, principal of the school, as the fourth grade teacher who replaced Mrs. Ray Graft. Rea also presented Mrs. Warner Penrod with a two-year pin for her service as president of the organization for two terms.

A REPORT on the PTA convention, held in Dayton two weeks ago, was given by Mrs. T. N. Willis. She said the discussions during the meeting stressed the importance of the parents spending more time with their children.

Stephen Brown, superintendent of the city schools, was the main speaker of the evening. He devoted his time to pointing out the overcrowded conditions in the schools all over the city. He concluded his talk by saying he didn't offer any solutions to the problem, only that he wanted to stress the need for something to be done.

Entertainment for the final meeting was provided by students from the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Carol Pitzer and Nancy Hurler, fourth graders, sang a duet, Ronnie Thomas also in the fourth grade sang a solo.

Six members of the fourth grade danced a Virginia reel. The dancers were Marilyn Ross, Nancy Underwood, Shirley Milstead, James Gilmore, John Penrod and Duane Calender.

A quintet composed of Clarence Trimmer, Roy Thornton, Raymond Minshall, Wayne Rayburn and Blaine Rice, all fifth graders, sang a song.

The final number on the program was a quartet of sixth graders who sang songs. They were Sylvia Robinson, Helen Turner, Bobby Havens and Roger Shackelford.

The Answers to everyday insurance problems *
By Leonard Korn and Dana Hyer

QUESTION: My husband's firm is temporarily transferring him to another community to assist in opening a new branch office. We plan to be away for several months and will close our home here during our absence. Should we notify our fire insurance company that our house will be unoccupied?

In this state occupancy of an insured dwelling is not required in order to keep the insurance in force provided the dwelling is in a "protected" area served by a city fire department. If the dwelling is in a rural area you should notify the Company if the home is to be vacant for more than a few days.

*If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office, we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be no charge or obligation of any kind.
